Matters Which Came Before the Courts Yesterday.

The Fifth Baptist Church Suit Against the Baltimore & Potomac Railroad-A Congregation Disturbed by a Machine Shop-Judge MacArthur Intercepts a Bold Attempt at Divorce.

Church vs. Pallroad. The sailt of the Fifth Baptist church, of South Washington, against the Baltimore & Potomac Bailroad Company came on for hearing before the court in general ferm—Calof-Justice Cartter and Justices Hagner and James—yesterlay, Mesus, R. Norrick and J. Datlington appeared for the companionant and Colonel Euoch Totten for the defendant complainant and Colonel Enoch Totten for the defendant.

The pistantif became incorporated May 5, 1870, and subsequently possessed of a lot situated on D, between Four-and-shalf and Sixth streets southwest, on which was afterward orected the Fifth Raplat church, to be used for public religious wership. The suit brought by the trustees of the church compairs that on April 1, 1874, the railroad company built an engine house and machine shops configuous to the meeting-house, and shire that time have continued to do injury to the church. The machine shops are keptrimulag, creating loud noises, the locomotives pass in and out of the yard, across the adexwalk into the street and on to the main steen of the road, stopping, when the engineer was so disposed on the foot way, and thereby blocking travel. These engines blew off steam, sounded their whistles, and the drivers rang bells on the Sabbath and other days interrupting worship and rolligious meetings held in the church. It was also charged that the smoke from the chim toys of the round-house blew into the church windows whenever the latter were open, making the auditorium of the edific ellagrecable and creating a nuisance.

manner, y the continuance of this state of affairs it is al-ed that the church has been losing its congrega-i, and $20,090 was claimed as a remuneration for renit court, and the jury disagreed. A second trial took place before Justice Wylic of the jury returned a version for the plaintiff fo

The defendants excepted to the rulings of the ourt, and the hearing is now upon them and a notion for a new trial.

The Holdest Attempt at Divoree.
On November 6, 1878, Catharine Creader, by permission of Justice Hamphreys, was permitted, without depositing in the clerk's office the customery fee, to tile a petition for divorce from her husband, John C. Creader, on the ground of desertion. The docket falls to show that a solicitor was retained on either side. A subposta to answer was issued to the defendant, which was retained by the marsial February 6, 1879, "not found." An order of publication was made April 14, 1879, and subsequently evidence formished that the order had been complied with on the 1st of March of the same year, one moints and a half prior to the granting of the order for publication. The taking of testimony was begun before Examiner J. J. Johnson. Only one witness, John Branson, was brought before him and examined.

He testified that he had known the petitioner for thirteen years, and the defendant slightly. The parties to this suit lived together as man and wife, and to the best of his knowledge were recognized as such. He knew that the defendant had abandoned and deserted her, but could not fix the date exactly. He knew it had been between len and cieven years ago. He had opportunities for knowing whether or not be sent her money, and was very well satisfied that he had not rendered her any support since he left her. This was the only witness examined, and upon this evidence the cause was submitted.

Justice MacArthur yesierday delivered the following opinion in the case:

"This is a petition for divorce on the ground of willful desertion. This is the boldest attempt at divorce made easy that has ever fallen under my observation. There is no appearance of a solletor for either party; no one appears responsible for the cause. The first party; no one appears responsible for the cause. Officer McDonald, of the Sixth precinct, arrested a white man, about forty-six years of age, yesterday afternoon, about 3 o'clock, while in the net of indecently exposing his person to a number of young girls in lows Circle. The man was taken to the station, where he gave his name as J. M. Hall. He was then locked up. Later in the day a number of small girls, between the ages of ten and thirteen, called at the station and identified Hall as the man who had committed a similar offense several times. The officers of the Sixth precinct have been on the lockout for this man for the past two weeks. He had been hanging around the Memorial church, where there is a day school, and the lows Circle for some time. He will be introduced to Judge Suell to day, and it is hoped that the Judge will impose upon him the greatest penalty that the law allows.
